Town's Retirement Board At Odds With State Audit Report

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Andover's contributory retirement system, according to a report by state auditors dated July 23, has a number of problems — among them, a "large and growing" deficit in its pension funding, and some "inadequate" accounting practices.

That report, however, is "not even close to being accurate," the town Board of Retirement chairman said this week. Based on town retirement records for 1980, 1981 and 1982, the state report is outdated and focuses on problems that have already been corrected, the chairman said.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony called the state report a "totally irresponsible audit," both "irritating" and "disappointing" in its findings.

The retirement board intends to send a letter of protest to state officials, the board secretary said this week, asking for an explanation of the "poor report."

The town's retirement system, started in 1937, is part of the Massachusetts contributory retirement system, and governed by Chapter 32 of state laws.

A three-member board of retirement administers the town system: the chairman, Fire Chief William T. Downs; the secretary, Town Accountant Rodney Smith, who replaced the recently-retired Wendell A. Mattheson; and Leo F. Daley. The board meets monthly.

The state's Public Employee Retirement Administration (PERA) routinely examines the town system's books every three years, PERA Commissioner John J. McGlynn said this week, to "make sure it's operating efficiently," with the books in order and employee contributions up-to-date.

According to McGlynn's introductory comments in the report, the PERA audit was done by examiners James Gallagher, John Walsh and Paul Sweeney. The town manager said the examiners spent several weeks reviewing retirement records at the town accountant's office at Town Hall last autumn.

If they find "serious and egregious" problems with a community's retirement system, state auditors usually return a year later to monitor progress in correcting those problems, McGlynn said. He said the state would "probably not" check up on Andover again for another three years.

The 14-page PERA report, submitted to town officials last week, lists six findings, with accompanying recommendations. McGlynn's foreword explains that although the report covers the period from Jan. 1, 1980 to Dec. 31, 1982, its "emphasis" is on 1982. The auditors' six findings cite the retirement system with:

- Inadequate funding of pension liability
- Below average return on investments
- An overdue contribution from the Andover Housing Authority
- Failure to update lists of active and inactive town employees
- Lack of proper journal and cash book records
- Inadequate control of active members and retiree file cards

The unfunded pension liability is the most serious problem in Andover, McGlynn said, and the community should be "aware" that it is "growing each year" because it is "important for the financial health of the community."

Beyond that, the commissioner said the examiners found "just rather slipshod accounting. In a community such as Andover, you probably would have expected better bookkeeping." He attributed that to a "rapidly growing" system and a lack of adequate clerical help, which he said has since been corrected.

Downs said that although it is dated July 23, 1984, the report includes information that is more than three years out of date. "This is actually an old report, as far as we're concerned."

Of the auditors' six recommendations, "We've addressed every one of them," the chairman said. "We've exceeded them." He said the report should have included up-to-date information on "what we've done to rectify" past problems.

Downs was most concerned about the report's statement that Andover has "a large and growing unfunded pension liability," which the report placed at $13,541,185 (a Jan. 1, 1979 figure).

"To date," the report reads, "Andover has not made any appropriations to a reserve fund to begin to address the unfunded pension liability" — a statement Downs called entirely incorrect.

The report emphasizes the importance of funding the pension liability, explaining that it "may be having a detrimental effect on the town's credit rating, thereby causing taxpayers to supply additional tax revenue to fund the town's debt."

But Downs and Smith said the town has been appropriating funds for the pension liability since 1980, and has now put a total of $795,000 (including principal and interest) toward the pension liability.

Annual town meeting has appropriated $150,000 for the retirement fund for the last three years under the retirement account (account number 950, line 71 in the annual Finance Committee report).

Downs said few communities in the Commonwealth have appropriated more than Andover has to date to fund its pension liability. "We're well on our way, and working in the right direction," Smith added.

In its second finding, the report said Andover's retirement system is earning an average of 8.1 percent in interest on its investment portfolio, while the state average rate of earned interest is 9.3 percent.

The board should "engage in investments which yield higher rates of interest and steady interest income," the report recommends.

Downs said he believes the board has done well with its investments: "The board over the years has been an old Yankee conservative board," he said. "We don't like to speculate. This has always been a conservative town — we're trying to protect the employees' money. That's our job."

He said he disagreed with the report's recommendation that Andover "should be going out taking chances."

Smith said the board increased its interest rate to 8.7 percent during 1983, and that he hopes to see the rate reach 9 percent this year.

He added that the board is holding a number of older bonds, and could lose substantial amounts of principal if it sold those bonds before they reached maturity (a fact that the state report acknowledges).

The state auditors also reported that

I am tired of hearing about men with the "courage of their convictions." Nero and Caligula and Attila and Hitler had the courage of their convictions—but not one had the courage to examine his convictions or to change them, which is the true test of character.

To Join Staff At Childhood Center

Alice M. Flynn, 3 Tamys Lane, will join the staff of ten teachers at the Shawsheen School Early Childhood Center this fall.

An Andover resident for 12 years, Flynn, who will teach kindergarten, has been active in the town's public schools. She serves on the Andover Parents' 766 Advisory Council and was a member of an elementary school study committee two years ago.

Flynn recently received her master's degree in special education from Lesley College, in Cambridge. She was a substitute in the public school system here for four years and also taught at the Christ Church nursery school. This past year Flynn tutored small groups of public school kindergarten children who needed developmental enrichment. Her program, which was grant-funded for one year, also involved workshops for parents of the children she tutored and visits to their homes.

Movie Is Thriller

The DCS Family Movie Program on Monday, Aug. 6, will feature Walt Disney's "Tron." The 96-minute feature will begin at dusk behind Doherty Junior High School.

"Tron" is about to take you somewhere you've never been... a brave new world set inside a computer... no movie has ever looked like this before," according to David Ansen of "Newsweek." "Tron" is spectacularly beautiful and wonderfully new with its futuristic setting and computer-generated imagery. The action and sights are exciting and mind boggling as three computer programmers and their computer counterparts desperately battle a power hungry world-threatening computer from within. And "Tron" takes you into this world

Recitalist In Concert At Organ Hall

Kenneth Grinnell will present a concert at the Methuen Memorial Music Hall on Wednesday, Aug. 8, at 8:30 p.m.

A well known organ recitalist in New England, Grinnell received his Bachelor of Music and Master of Sacred Music degrees from Boston University where he studied organ with Jack Fisher, Max Miller and George Faxon. He is minister of music and organist of the First Congregational Church in Manchester, N.H. Grinnell is an active member of the American Guild of Organists, holding the Fellowship and Choir Master certificates, serving the New Hampshire Chapter as Dean and serving the New England region as coordinator for Examination Preparation and Promotion.

His program includes: Concerto in G Major, BWV 592 (after Johann Ernst), Johann Sebastian Bach; Sonata No. 2, Paul Hindemith; Chorale No. 1 in G, Roger Sessions; Wondrous Love (Variations on a Shape-Note Hymn), Samuel Barber; Toccata, Leo Sowerby; Sonata No. 5 in D Major, Op. 65, Felix Mendelssohn; Partita: Was gott tut, das ist wohlgetan, Johann Pachelbel; and Variations on Weinen, Klagen, Sorgen, Zagen, Franz Liszt.

The great organ of the Methuen Memorial Music Hall has a very impressive history. In 1856 Jabez Baxter Upham was authorized by the Boston Music Hall Association to select a builder in Europe for an organ for the new hall. After years of delays and problems, the organ constructed by Walcher of Ludwigsburg, Germany, finally arrived and installation was started. The case was made of American walnut and the show pipes, of burnished tin. The great organ was inaugurated November 2, 1863.

Shamie Opens Andover Office

U.S. Senate candidate, Ray Shamie, opened his campaign's Andover headquarters Tuesday, telling a group of supporters that "this campaign would be won on the grassroots level."

The Shamie headquarters, located at the Sheraton Rolling Green, 311 Lowell St., will double as a phone bank allowing volunteers to contact area Republicans and Independents and get them to support Ray Shamie.

The Andover office is one of ten throughout the state that the Shamie campaign feels will be able to reach every Republican household in the Commonwealth.

"We hope to reach every available voter, let them know about my philosophy and where I stand on the issues," Shamie said. "That way, they'll be able to make an educated decision when they go to the polls. and, of course, I hope they'll support me."

In the first two weeks of the volunteer recruitment drive, more than 1,000 people signed up to help Shamie all across the state. "People seem to be tired of career politicians who don't use common sense," he explained. "They want representatives who understand the problems of working men and women. I've been working since I was 16 years old and when I go to Washington, I won't forget my roots."

Anyone interested in helping the Shamie campaign should call his office in Boston.

Program To Begin

What do computers, clay and kung fu have in common? All are courses offered for children by Kaleidoscope in an exciting three-week enrichment program beginning Monday, August 6. Students are reminded to arrive at least 15 minutes early on the first day of each class (8:45 a.m. for a.m. classes and 11:45 a.m. for p.m. classes).

Other important reminders: All classes that begin this Monday are at West Elementary School, Beacon Street, except for Computer Know-How (grades 7, 8, and 9) and the additional session of Introductory Computer Camp at West Junior High School in the afternoon. Contact the director prior to Monday if there is any doubt about the exact location. All students, with the exception of those enrolled in Adventures in Science, should bring a snack for mid-morning and/or mid-afternoon break.

There are still openings in the Responsive Parenting Workshop to be held Tuesday through Thursday, Aug. 7-9, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Kaleidoscope parents as well as the general public may participate. For tuition information, contact Janis Baron, director.

Almost 40 courses will be offered to more than 300 children from 20 communities. Kaleidoscope is offered in cooperation with the Andover Department of Community Services.

WOMEN & PRE-NUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

If you are contemplating marriage or remarriage, you may be concerned that you will risk the eventual loss of some or all of your property or other assets in the event of a dissolution of your marriage by death or divorce. You may also be uneasy about raising these concerns with your prospective husband because you do not wish to seem unromantic or greedy. A properly negotiated and drafted pre-nuptial agreement can often address these very genuine concerns. The assistance of a lawyer in the negotiation and drafting process is essential if you wish your agreement to be valid and enforceable at some later time. Contact Judith L. Nathanson, whose practice concentrates in representing women in domestic relations.

Services For Blind

Based on the six-month project report completed by the Services for the Blind, the Merrimack Valley United Fund will finance the project for an additional six months while a network of volunteers are recruited and trained.

The original project involved a study of the number of blind and visually handicapped residents in the Greater Haverhill and Greater Lawrence communities and what their service needs were.

Findings from the study show 814 legally blind persons in Greater Haverhill and Greater Lawrence and many more with serious vision deficiencies. A large proportion of the blind population is elderly.

The Merrimack Valley is the state's second largest area of legally blind and has a large number of persons with severe vision problems. With the exception of the Lowell Association for the Blind, the Merrimack Valley has no agency providing primary services such as information and referral, transportation, training, recreation companions, shoppers, or readers to local blind persons. More than 73 percent of the agencies serving the blind are located in the Boston area and access is a severe problem.

Ligia D'Appolito, project director, is recruiting and training a network of volunteers to set up a system of meeting the needs of local blind residents. At the end of the six months, the United Fund will again review the project and help it develop into an independent non-profit organization if the volunteer leadership and support is in place.

Puppeteer Eleanor Boylan with puppets from Jack and the Beanstalk.

Puppet Show At Y

An unusual program for children will be presented by the Andover-North Andover YMCA on Wednesday, Aug. 8.

The Cape Ann Puppeteers, popular Northshore entertainers, will perform their musical puppet play of "Jack and the Beanstalk." This children's story has been adapted to the puppet stage by Eleanor Boylan whose work in children's theatre has been in many New England schools and libraries. Charming hand puppets, colorful scenery and an enchanting musical score all help bring Jack's classic climb up the beanstalk excitingly to life.

Two performances will be given, at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. For information, call the Andover-North Andover YMCA.

Singers Workshop Scheduled

The Treble Chorus of New England announces that the eighth annual Singers' Workshop will be held at South Church in Andover August 13-18. Summer home of the regional Treble Chorus of New England, the workshop welcomes musically-talented boys and girls ages 8-15. The workshop will meet daily from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., culminating in a concert on Saturday evening.

Under the direction of its founder, Marie Stultz, the Singers' Workshop is widely known for its high standards of classical music instruction. Stultz of North Reading is founder and artistic director of the parent choir, The Treble Chorus of New England, and is co-music director of the famed Old North Church in Marblehead. She is an active composer and conductor with many private voice students.

Students who attend the Singers' Workshop may elect to audition for the Treble Chorus of New England 1984-85 concert season. This past performance season included concerts at Hammond Castle in Gloucester, Phillips Academy in Andover, a television appearance on Channel 5, a "30s and 40s" performance and a spring Brahms and Britten concert. The Treble Chorus collaborated with Boston Musica Viva and M.I.T. Advanced Center for Visual Studies on May 30 to present the American premier of Paul Earls' contemporary opera "Icarus." It featured a laser display, computer-synthesized music, giant inflatable sculpture and chamber ensemble in addition to the Treble Chorus. All were under the direction of Richard Pittman.

An Andover High Gymnast Uses That Talent For A Stage Career

By Susan Rand

His early experiences as a gymnast at Andover High School prepared David S. Leong for his career as a choreographer of fights and stunts on stages across the country.

Now 32, Leong, who graduated from Andover High in 1969, has translated his athletic ability into teaching the art of fighting in the theater and in films. He is one of 12 members in the Society of American Fight Directors. Composed of the elite in the business, the Seattle-based group choreographs fight sequences while promoting safety in combat scenes for most of the major Broadway productions and many films.

Long before he uncovered his love for the arts, Leong was, as he says, "a jock," here in town where he was taken out of the cast of "The King and I" at the high school because he chose to attend gymnastic competitions instead of play rehearsals. A high school guidance counselor told him he wasn't college material but the determined student headed for the University of New Hampshire, in Durham, N.H., where he became an early childhood education major.

After taking a required course in theatre, the budding actor became addicted to the performing arts and ended up leaving college, where he was a straight "A" student, with a degree in education and theater and proving his high school advisors wrong.

Leong has been in education ever since, now an assistant professor at Northern Kentucky University. Although he lives far from his home, Leong's mother Vivienne Leong resides here, on Shawsheen Road, where her son stops in for visits a few times a year.

For the last three weeks Leong has been at Salem State College, Salem, teaching with seven other masters of stage fighting at the fifth annual National Stage Combat Workshop. The summer session comes to an end tomorrow night with a performance by the 40 workshop students, most of whom are actors and college professors who have come to study with the masters from all around the country and from Canada. They will demonstrate their hand-to-hand fighting techniques, stunts and combat with swords, rapiers and daggers at the college gymnasium. Call Salem State for ticket information and performance times.

Outside of theater people, not a lot of people know an organization such as the Society of American Fight Directors exists, explained Leong. Of course Broadway directors won't use anyone else to stage their fights, he said, but many regional and small summer theater groups don't know how to choreograph their fight scenes and can't afford to pay a professional to do the work. Many directors end up letting their actors work out the flips, kidney punches, face slaps and choke scenes on their own, often resulting in accidents and injury to the actors. The fight directors teach the art of stage fighting which is based on team effort, cooperation and illusion, not violence.

In a class last week at Salem State, Leong and his apprentice Charles Killian instructed 18 actors and teachers in one of the most dangerous fights, the stage slap. When viewed from the downstage angle, the way the audience will see the fight, it is impossible to know that Leong's hand barely touches Killian's face. The slapping noise comes not from Leong's hand striking Killian, but instead from Killian clapping his own hands together out of the audiences' line of vision. The pair then turn their stunt around so the class can see the mechanics of the fight.

The class had created their own fight scenes for their teacher last Friday and broke into pairs to show them off. As the couples kicked, scratched, poked and flipped each other they were constantly instructed by Leong to scream, grimace and yell because, as Leong explained to his class, it isn't real to an audience unless they feel how much it hurts.

"These things cannot be done in silence," the muscular, agile teacher told his students.

It has taken some time for the class to be able to flip each other around on the mats in the student union lounge. Much of the initial work of teaching stage fighting involves building trust between the actors, said Leong.

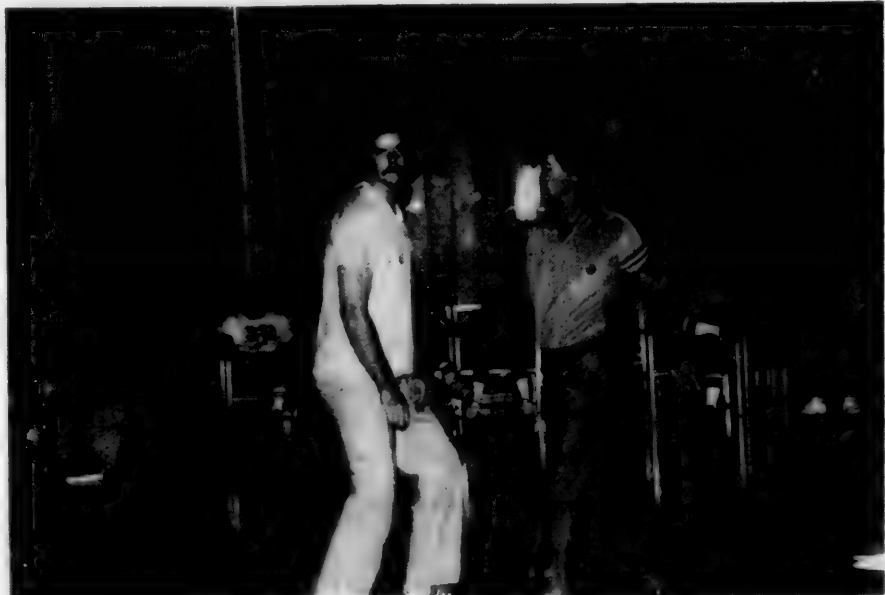

The teacher also warned his students about the professional responsibilities they must take on when teaching fights. They are not, he warns them, experts at the art after a three-week workshop. And, they must also not try and parlay the time they have spent with him into an acting job elsewhere.

Too many times, Leong later explained, he has come across directors who tell him they hired actors who claim to have worked with Leong, who often doesn't remember their names after only a short workshop session with the student. In a profession where reputation is everything it is inevitable that there are those who take advantage of what little they have learned. His reputation in the theater bring a handful of letters each year from people who want to study with Leong.

"I tell them to study to be an actor first then come and see me," he explained. A knowledge of stage fighting isn't any good without an acting foundation to build on. And, as he tells his students to do, Leong put in his time with some of the best stage fighters in the business before being able to teach the art.

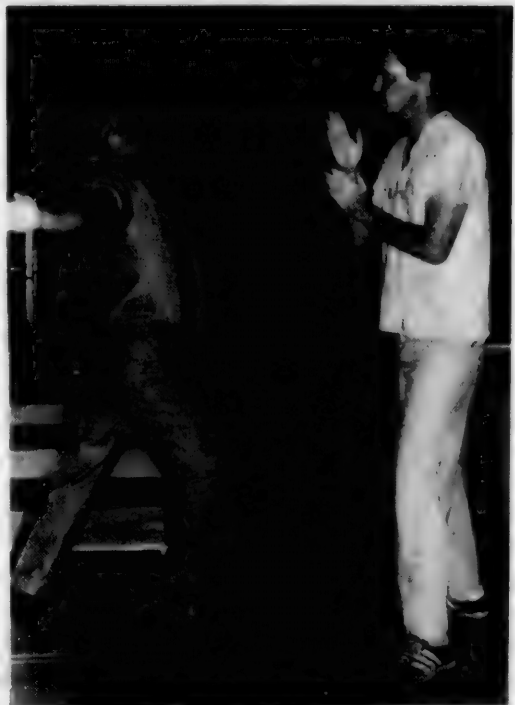

After obtaining a master of fine arts degree at the University of North Carolina, in Greensboro, where he was a teaching assistant and working at other teaching jobs at Alabama's University of Montebello, and the University of Maryland, at College Park, Leong said he became involved in what was then called "actor movement training." This was a decade ago, in 1974, and Leong decided that he had more skill at stage movement than many of the actors with whom he worked. It was the gymnastics training that gave Leong the confidence to know he could help improve the sloppy stage techniques he saw.

So he went to study with internationally known masters. His teachers were David Boushey and Erik Frederickson, both of whom are teaching at Salem State with Leong and also hold full members in the Society of American Fight Directors. Another mentor is a man Leong called the "granddaddy" of the modern fight directors, Patrick "Paddy" Crean.

Now 73, Crean was once a familiar face to movie-goers, although they don't realize it now, said Leong. Crean was Errol Flynn's double and teacher, said Leong.

"A handsome man with panache," said Leong about Crean, it is easy to tell that he was the image of Errol Flynn. Crean also taught fighting to Sir Laurence Olivier, Sir Alec Guinness and Douglas Fairbanks Sr.

To gain his full member status in the the American Fight Directors Society Leong had to prove he had a strong reputation with stage and film directors and producers, teaching experience and professional credits to his name. He has been a full member now for three years and is one of the dozen fight directors, all men, who decide whether to admit others to their ranks. Leong encouraged his Salem State students to pursue membership in the Society of American Fight Directors, adding that there is enough work in the country for a fight director.

Besides his teaching, most recently in Kentucky, Leong has staged fight se-

Endearing Hug A Bear Toys Created By Faculty Wife

By Sue Aucella Deacon

When face-to-face with one of Judy Hamilton's embraceable monkeys, few can resist. Grandparents who buy one for a grandchild often have to come back for another, because they can't bear to part with the first one.

With their soft fur, amiable faces and long limbs meant for hugs, the monkeys can seem endearingly lifelike.

They are, however, the product of Judy's sewing machine. The one-time Phillips Academy cluster dean, house counselor and veteran "cookie pusher" is now the creator behind a two-year-old home-based business, "Hug A Bear By Judy."

Monkeys were her first creation and remain one of her most popular sellers, but Judy makes all manner of furry creatures. The shelves in her basement workroom are lined with Sesame Street characters, cheerful-looking raccoons in striped T-shirts, a tall Bugs Bunny, bunnies and mice dressed in calico, fluffy cats, and "quite a variety of bears" — big bears and little bears, polars and pandas.

Most of them are puppets, and all of them beg to be touched. ("I knew I wanted to call it 'Hug A' something," Judy says of her enterprise, "but 'Hug A Monkey' didn't sound right.")

Judy came to Phillips Academy nearly 16 years ago. Her husband, Thomas, teaches biology at the academy and runs Stearns East dormitory, where the Hamiltons live with their two daughters; Debbie, 18, and Amy, 16, will both be seniors at the academy next fall.

For a while, she was a "cookie pusher," Judy says — "that's what they called faculty wives." Later, when all-boys Phillips Academy and all-girls Abbot Academy merged into a co-educational institute, she became the academy's first female house counselor, then its first female cluster dean.

She served as dean of Flagstaff cluster for five years, until the family left for a sabbatical year in Scotland in 1980.

When they returned, Judy decided she had spent enough years just "falling into things" and enrolled in graduate school at Antioch College Extension in Keene, N.H. Her goal was to become a counselor.

But after she finished her graduate studies, Judy began to show her monkeys at a North Reading flea market, then in local craft shows, to take the edge off a frustrating job search. Friends had always told her she ought to sell the stuffed animals she made for her children and as gifts — and when she started making those monkeys, her husband urged her to sell them.

"He kind of pushed me into it," she admits. But once Judy hit the craft show circuit, Hug A Bear just seemed to develop "a mind of its own."

She gave up looking for a job (although she still harbors hopes of someday com-

Most of Judy's animals, like the monkeys, are hand puppets, because "puppets are a lot more fun and interesting than stuffed animals," she explains. "There's more you can do with them, and they appeal to all ages."

She pulls a gray-furred monkey over one arm, wraps its arms around her neck and its legs around her waist, sounds its hidden "squeaker" — and the puppet instantly becomes lively and lovable.

Kristen James

Andrew Shattuck

Students At Tanglewood

Two Andover students are currently attending Boston University's Tanglewood Institute in Lenox, now in its 19th season.

The students are Kristen James, the daughter of W. Robert and Nancy James of 13 Standish Circle; and Andrew Shattuck, the son of Dana and Judith Shattuck of 265 High Plain Road.

Both are participating in the Young Artists Vocal Program.

Kristen is an Andover High School senior. She belongs to the school's madrigal club, marching and concert bands, and jazz band. She has performed with the Andover Music and Drama Guild and the Emerson College Youth Theatre.

Andrew is an Andover High School graduate. He belongs to the Andover Choral Society, and has performed with the Andover Music and Drama Guild.

The Boston University Tanglewood Institute, in association with the Berkshire Music Center, offers 13 musical programs, with instruction from members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra (BSO) and other prominent musicians and music educators from around the country.

Among the BSO members on the institute's faculty are Joseph Silverstein, assistant conductor and concertmaster; Robert Ripley, chamber musician and soloist; and Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flutist.

More than 300 students from the United States and a number of foreign countries are accepted into the institute after competitive auditioning, which includes at least three solo works.

State Support Hailed

This week, the Massachusetts Arts Advocacy Committee (MAAC), an informal organization representing arts and humanities groups across the state, hailed the passage of a $4 million increase in state funding for cultural activities in Massachusetts. This increase was won with close cooperation from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency, and by intensive lobbying by cultural organizations of all sizes and budgets, ranging from the Boston Symphony to the Berkshire Historical Society, said Barbara Garvey, chair of the Massachusetts Arts Advocacy Committee. "The cultural community is gratified by the response of Governor Dukakis and the legislature. Thanks to their support, the combined funding for cultural activities in Massachusetts will be more than $16 million this coming year," she added.

Garvey noted that "the cultural industry contributes to the Massachusetts economy by attracting people to the state and by generating income from tourist industry-related taxes, as well as sales and income taxes. Support for the arts pays big dividends to Massachusetts."

Garvey had special praise for Rep. Charles Flaherty (Cambridge) who led the fight in the House to end what MAAC considered unfair, "line-item funding" of individual cultural organizations. These monies are now included in the budget of the Massachusetts Council on Arts and Humanities, particularly under the community resources program. Senate President William Bulger and Sen. Chester Atkins (Concord) initiated a $2 million increase for this program which serves public school children and arts organizations across the state.

The Governor's recommended increase of $300,000 in state lottery funds going to local arts councils did not pass the legislature this year. Garvey said that the MAAC will lead an effort during the coming year to increase the lottery funds going to local arts councils. "Local arts lottery councils, located in more than 300 cities and towns, have proved to be able administrators and initiators of important historical and artistic projects," Garvey noted. "The cap needs to be lifted so that more funds can flow directly to local aid targeted for such projects." The Massachusetts Arts Advocacy Committee plans to work closely with the Massachusetts Arts Lottery council to remove the existing cap of $3 million for local arts councils.

Named Administrator At Whittier Hospital

Edna Somma, an Andover resident with nearly 15 years of experience managing rehabilitation hospitals, has been appointed administrator of Whittier Rehabilitation Hospital, a 122-bed specialty hospital in Haverhill.

She is in charge of the day-to-day operation of the hospital. "Ms. Somma brings to Whittier a wealth of experience in operating rehabilitation hospitals," said Dr. Alfred L. Arcidi, Whittier's president, in announcing the appointment. "She is a strong, results-oriented leader with the ability to manage a wide range of programs."

Before coming to Whittier, Somma was assistant administrator at Spaulding Rehabilitation Hospital, Boston. She joined Spaulding, then Massachusetts Rehabilitation, in 1973 as director of the continuing care department and rose through a number of management positions until her appointment as assistant administrator in 1980.

Somma is a member of the Merrimack Valley Health Planning Council. She served on a citizens' committee to determine the goals of public education in Andover.

Somma is a graduate of Lawrence General Hospital's School of Nursing and St. Anselm's College.

Whittier Rehabilitation Hospital is a full-service rehabilitation hospital providing inpatient care to adults in physical, occupational and recreational therapy and in speech and language pathology. Whittier offers outpatient services to adults and children in communication disorders, physical and occupational therapy and sports medicine.

Bach Benefit Weekend

Have you ever heard of a bank becoming a concert hall? The six Brandenburg concerti of J.S. Bach will be performed in a special benefit weekend of concerts beginning August 3 in the lobby of the Andover Savings Bank and continuing August 4 in Cochran Chapel on the Phillips Academy campus. The performers will be the faculty and student musicians of Phillips Academy's chamber music program. Sponsorship of a Bach concert by the savings bank marks a new use of the bank's high-ceilinged lobby, bringing music to Andover's Main Street.

On Friday, Aug. 3, at 8:30 p.m. an ensemble of faculty musicians will perform the fourth, fifth and sixth Brandenburg concerti, featuring flute soloists Peggy Friedland, Sarah Tuck and Katherine Bergeron and violinists Paul Goldsberry and Brice Farrar in the fourth and fifth Brandenburgs. Oboists Peggy Pearson and Sandy Consiglio will perform as soloists in the sinfonia from J.S. Bach's Cantata No. 42. The first of these all-Bach concerts to be held in the main lobby of the Andover Savings Bank, 61 Main St., will benefit A Better Chance, a national non-profit organization that provides academically talented minority students with an outstanding secondary school education. A.B.C.'s goal is to prepare students for excellence in higher education so that they might go on to assume positions of responsibility as minority professionals and community leaders. The concert is free, but donations for A.B.C. will be accepted.

On Saturday at 7:30 p.m. student musicians will join the faculty in a second benefit concert, performing the first three Brandenburg concerti in Cochran Chapel on the academy campus. Appearing will be horn soloists Larry Ragent and Andrew Taylor, trumpet soloist Vincent Monaco, oboists Peggy Pearson, Sandy Consiglio and Keith Thomas and violinist Alvin Wen. Saturday's concert will benefit the Greater Lawrence Family Health Center, a four-year-old community health clinic in Lawrence, where family physicians and other health professionals provide health care and information services to local families, regardless of their financial circumstances.

This weekend of music is dedicated to James Bunnell, co-founder of the Summer Chamber Music Program at Andover, and his wife, Kate, for their support of faculty and student musicians over nine summers of music at Phillips Academy.

For further information, call the music department at Phillips Academy or the school receptionist, Meredith Thiras.

Museum May Move To Lawrence

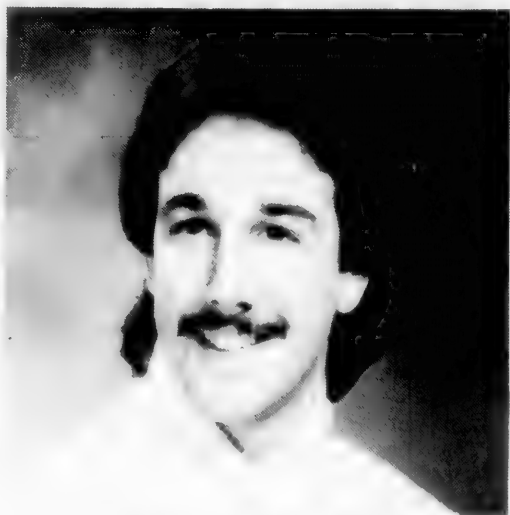

Edward B. Stevens, president of the Merrimack Valley Textile Museum, confirmed that the board of trustees is exploring the feasibility of relocating the museum within the Lawrence Heritage State Park.

"I have informed Department of Environmental Management Commissioner James Gutensohn that we are interested in the possibility of establishing the Museum of American Textile History in Lawrence, provided that a plan which ensures both our short and long-term financial stability can be agreed upon," Stevens said.

"As we approach the 25th anniversary of the founding of the museum, the trustees and staff have agreed that greater public accessibility to our programs and services is a priority. We feel this goal can best be realized if we acquire more space in Lawrence's historic mill district," Stevens noted.

Other officials confirmed that Gov. Michael Dukakis, Congressman James Shannon, Senators Patricia McGovern and Chester Atkins, Representatives Kevin Blanche and Sue Tucker and Mayor John Buckley have indicated their support of the proposal.

Andover resident Mark Easton, a 21-year-old college senior, is working this summer as a legislative intern in the Boston office of State Representative Sue Tucker of Andover.

Easton's duties include researching proposed environmental legislation and analyzing tax policies that affect the cost and availability of day-care services. He is also examining problems in the management of state agencies, including inefficient and wasteful use of tax dollars and unacceptable treatment of the general public in the delivery of state services.

Tucker said she plans to use Easton's research findings as background material in her legislative activities this fall.

"I'm pleased to have an intern of Mark's caliber," Tucker said. "He's bright, perceptive and highly motivated."

Easton will begin his senior year this fall at Swarthmore College in Swarthmore, Pa., where he is majoring in history and minoring in economics.

He called his six-week internship with Tucker "challenging and rewarding."

"It's a great opportunity to view the workings of state government, especially with a legislator as dynamic as Sue Tucker," he said.

As for his future plans, Easton is considering either law school or graduate studies in international relations. First, however, he would like to work for two or three years in a position that involves or affects public policy-making.

East, who lives at 2 Tobey Lane, Andover, is the son of Cabot and Ruby Easton.

Enrolled At Pomona

Kirstin K. Schoonover, a recent graduate of Phillips Academy and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Schoonover of Andover, will enroll at Pomona College in Claremont, Calif., according to President David Alexander.

This year's 394 member freshman class was selected from 2,009 candidates from 33 states and four foreign countries.

Pomona College is an independent, coeducational liberal arts institution founded in 1887. Located 36 miles east of Los Angeles, the four-year college has an enrollment of approximately 1,350.

A Painter's Tip

If you are going to change colors between ceilings and walls or at a corner, it's best to lay down a couple of strips of masking tape along the seam. Paint the lighter color first, then the darker color. The slips will be covered more easily when you do the darker color. Usually ceilings will be lighter than walls, so

Preschool And Tiny Tot

This was busy at Bancroft. The Preschool had a Wild West Day on Wednesday which consisted of making a totem pole, head dresses and they even wore war paint. They did a sunshine dance with authentic native American music and performed for the Tiny Tots. Rollins Cable sent a camera crew and it's all on film. So, check cable listings. Preschoolers also worked very hard on a pinata which resembled E.T. and on Friday everyone broke it and enjoyed its candy filling. Monday was kite-flying day and homemade kites were a big hit. As usual the sandbox was the place to be and sand castles were built with great skill.

The Tiny Tot playground was also featured in Rollins filming and the tiny playgrounders finger painted with pudding and paraded around to the tunes of Sesame Street. Thursday was P.J. Day and everyone arrived ready for bed. They brought their favorite stuffed animal and listened to bedtime stories. The activity of the week was footprint painting which looked like great fun. On Wednesday, the Tiny Tots made bunny puppets with big ears and fluffy faces. Friday Preschool and Tiny Tot ended the week with a picnic and field games. The Preschoolers finished their original tie dye t-shirts and the Tiny Tots made grass cups and enjoyed their favorite activity—free play.

All Day

The third session of the All Day playground brought many new faces as goodbyes were said to volunteer Casey Pant. Lot of time was spent outside in the sunshine Monday, playing Red Light and Germany. David Halleran, Jennifer Buck and Jon Deloge were outstanding players. Later, Evan Duff, Amy Ahern, Kelly Ferguson and Shannon Kelley were just a few who enjoyed Ted's famous "log roll" as part of the relay races. Chalk drawings were Monday's art project and Ryan Ahern, Stephanie Buck, Alyssa Farris and Maureen Mullen made some beautiful creations. Tuesday began with three tough games of Capture the Flag. Jonah Corneau and Stephen Carter were the captains of the two excellent teams. The pool was a handy way to cool off and Gwendy Duff, Liz Carew and Sarah Halleran had a great time doing it. After lunch friendship pins were made. Christine Mullen had the most pins on her sneakers at the end while Brenda Brightman, Megan Kelley, Jennifer Farris and Tasha Roberts made some beautiful pins. A fierce game of four-square was enjoyed by Dana Fritsch, Even Ferguson and Jared Greenberg, to name a few. On Wednesday most of the playground went to Benson's Wild Animal Farm in Nashua, N.H. Tommy Christopher, Aron Johnson, Matt Tomkinson, Justin Rosenblatt and Mike Kelley stayed at the school and played some great soccer in the gym followed by a hilarious game of hide-and-seek. Thursday was mini-olympics and what a day it was. The following is a list of events and winners in the grades 3-6 category in order: basketball free throw, Liz Carew, Justin Rosenblatt, Alyssa Farris. Standing long jump, Alyssa Farris, Gwendy Duff, Liz Carew. Running race, David Halleran, Sarah Halleran, Alyssa Farris. Softball throw, David Halleran, Aron Johnson, Justin Rosenblatt. Chinese jump rope, Brenda Brightman, Tash Roberts, Liz Carew. Dead Dog, Gwendy Duff, Liz Carew, Jared Greenberg. Backwards race, David Halleran, Brenda Brightman, Liz Carew. The K-2 kids also had a number of winners in their events: Softball throw, Jonah Corneau, Tommy Christopher, Jon Deloge. Headstand contest, Christine Mullen, Jennifer Farris, Jennifer Buck. Backwards/forward race, Jennifer Buck, Christine Mullen, Jon Deloge. Broad jump, Tommy Christopher, Jennifer Buck, Jonah Corneau. The dance marathon, Megan Kelley, Christine Mullen, Jennifer Buck. Pet rocks were made during quiet time. Maureen Mullen, Stephanie Buck, Matt Tomkinson and Jared Greenberg made some terrific pet rocks.

Ballardvale

The past week at Ballardvale was eventful with the departure of one staff member and the arrival of a new one. A going-away party was held for Chantel Pierret on Friday who was leaving for the summer. The kids gave her all kinds of presents and Lisa Hayes and Cathy Giuliani baked a going-away cake.

On Monday the arrival of Laurie McDonald was greeted with open arms as she quickly got involved in games with Matt and Wayne Davis and Adam Heller. Thursday was Halloween Day and all the kids dressed up. Angie Giuliani was a movie star and Reggie Hayes came in a bear suit, but the best of all was Vanessa Blank all decked out in a clown suit.

Bancroft

What a week! Bancroft has seen many changes. Recently, Jennifer Prudden, Cathy Zappala and Beth and Brian Lee have joined. Mazes were made Bill Bill, Jimmy and Johnny for all to enjoy. Many ranted and raved about how scary, haunted they were. Kara O'Handley even wanted to bring in a flashlight. Tuesday Chris brought along his outlandish behavior. Wednesday was Benson's Animal farm. Tim Sullivan, Ted Ratyna, Bobby and Abby Dalton and Megan O'Handley were able to do a complete loop on one of the rides. Matt Daniels, Abby and Megan made the record for the rollercoaster riding nine times around the firefly. The kids had fun on Thursday making tissue paper flowers with their choice of colors. Greg deBeer won the award for ugliest flower hands down. He chose black, white and orange as his colors. Buffy and Kathy used an entire bottle of perfume to make their flowers smell nice. It turned out they used just a little too much of it and the entire gym smelled. Everyone decorated the supply cabinet with all of their names with red, green, blue and yellow paint.

Doherty

Another week has just gone by at Doherty. It started with a legitimate splash when everyone played water spud smash. Jason Twombly and Peter Newman were part of the clan, Peter had coordination plus as he broke the balloon in his hand. Tuesday rolled around and again the game was played, but this time it was Danny Wrigley who got sprayed. The arts and crafts of the week was a pinata. King Subs was Tuesday's delight, it was Ryan Morgan who led the flight. On Wednesday everyone went up and down the rollercoaster at Bensons. Thursday, with a single candle, stories were told, some were scared, most were bold. The fiesta on Friday was a treat and the pinata was broken for the candy inside.

Sanborn

Sanborn had more excitement than everyone could handle. On Monday everyone, except Peter O., let their hair down or rather up, showing how much punk there was in them. Matt Waugh and Chris Gray were the punkiest guys while Amanda Firicano and Laura O'Day were representatives for the girls. Tuesday friendship beads were used. Sanborn is now adorned with many beautiful bracelets designed by Jenny Pecoraro and Natalie Teperdjian. God's eyes were made on Thursday and Rebecca Kady and Meridith Gilbert made some awesome examples. The news of the week is, of course, Benson's. And here is what happened. Benson's had some interesting amusements. The animals, fed many times by Andy DeBenedictis, were quite interesting. Paul and Chris Lembo, Tom DeBenedictis and Chris Grey had lots of excitement on the bumper cars. Ryan Walsh enjoyed playing with his Lambergini race car which he proudly accepted as an achievement of winning hoop-a-basketball. The roller coaster attracted all 23 Sanborn playgrounders. The round-a-bout was one of the most interesting rides on the animal farm. Sanborn champions were Aimee Ross and Tom DeBenedictis. Amands, Natalie, Brie, Meredith and Leashonne enjoyed the day's excitement by observing the puppet show and all the animals.

South

A ride to Scoops on Monday gave a refreshingly tasty start to the week. The day ended with an exciting kickball game in which Billy Owens' team came out victorious. Nicole Gorton, Krissie Barrow and many others ventured to Bancroft for a visit. Meanwhile, Melissa Romig and Amy Kenney created colorful loop bracelets. Wednesday proved to be great fun for those who went to Benson's Wild Animal Farm. Matt Kenney's favorite ride was the bumper cars while Nick Zammuto liked the roller coaster and enjoyed the helicopter ride. Thursday was just as exciting. Everyone came in their pajamas and brought along many stuffed animal friends. Vanessa Scareau's teddy bear accompanied her to watch the movies and enjoy the pancake breakfast. Michael Wise, Jay Coburn, Rocky Trodd and Jason Price had fun walloping each other in a pillow fight. The week ended with the weekly cookout and many gym games.

West Elementary

Another exciting week at West Elementary began on Monday with a game of mob kickball. Chris Lane's excellent fielding abilities and Mike Kelly's superior kicking helped their teams to victory. Tuesday's special attraction was a bike hike to McDonalds, then to Rose Glenn, puff, puff, to the Sanborn playground. John Melillo, A.J. Rimas and Matt Jennings led the pack while Jeremy Roux and counselor Lauren Petzold made sure all was well with the tail end of the group. Also participating in the bike hike were Andy Brent, Adam Ruma and Eric Begg. Special mention should be given to leader Mary Robb who fearlessly led everyone up long hills and down short ones. Those who stayed behind entered a bubble gum blowing contest. Andrew Ardini, Ian Begg and Spanky Charland had outstanding performances while Tara Coppola, counselor Kim Wilkins and Kathy Baily performed well for the girls. Even their fearless leader Craig Silva participated in this exciting event. Wednesday was the big day of the week with the field trip to Benson's Wild Animal Farm. Stacy Bilisle, Donnie Bilisle, Heather Redd, Rebecca Morris, Mark and Jenny Chantland, Kelly and Kevin Young, Chad Murphy, Rich and Scott Marique and Layne Whitley are just a few of the many who participated. Craig and Bulwinkle went one-on-one in a game of indoor baseball on Thursday and afterward the entire playground played a heated game of Capture the Flag.

Worthy things happen to the worthy.

Prevost-Stephens

Katharine Anne Stephens, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garry Stephens, 13 Summer St., Andover, was married to James Frederick Prevost, son of Mrs. Margaret Prevost, Albany, N.Y., and Dr. James Prevost, Richmond, Va., on June 9 at North Parish Church in North Andover.

Rev. David Blanchard of North Andover and Fr. Frederick Prevost, uncle of the groom, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a straight-sleeve Alencon lace gown with an embroidered English net train with matching front and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her cathedral-length veil cascaded from a crown of white lace flowers.

Susan Getgood of Andover was maid of honor;

Cynthia Stephens Bloch, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Elizabeth Zucker, Deena Hopwood and Julie Prevost, sister of the groom. They wore long, puffed-sleeve dresses of rose taffeta.

Michael Prevost, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Michael Berg, Paolo Torti, James F. Ritter and James B. Ritter.

The bride, a mid-term senior at Brandeis University, is a graduate of Emma Willard School.

The groom, a 1981 graduate of Dartmouth College, is on leave from General Electric Corporation to pursue an MBA at Harvard Business School.

Following a reception at the Lanam Club, Andover, the couple left for a trip to Martha's Vineyard. They will reside in Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beaulieu

Observe 65th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beaulieu celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Cloutier.

The couple's three grandchildren, Gerard Cloutier and wife, Cynthia (Gaudet) of Andover, Jeanne, wife of David Emert of Stratford, Conn., and Louise, wife of Armand Hamman, plus seven great grandchildren attended the celebration.

Mr. Beaulieu's sister, Mrs. Cecil MacCarthy, Mrs. Beaulieu's niece, Arlene Coon, and several close neighbors came to offer their congratulations. Many cards arrived from all corners of the U.S.A.

Both Louis and Del, as their many friends call them, lived their younger years in Lawrence and were married there in the Sacred Heart Church on July 7, 1919.

Louis retired twice, first from Reichhold Chemical in Lowell Junction and then again at the young age of 84 from a part-time job at a trucking firm. Since then he has been repairing neighborhood bicycles as a hobby.

Del is a fine housekeeper and spends time sewing and doing for others.

They attend St. Joseph's Church in Ballardvale and Del belongs to and still attends The Catholic Daughters of America.

July 7 is also Mrs. Beaulieu's birthday.

Facts About Skin

Did you know that your lips can get sunburned? Or that your body's largest organ (weight: about 5.5 pounds) is your skin? Or that it's water, not oil, that keeps your skin moist?

Dryness of the skin is primarily due to loss of water from the skin's outer layer and insufficient movement of moisture upward from lower tissue layers.

Absentee

Voting

Secretary of State Michael Joseph Conolly announced new procedures for overseas absentee voting as a result of legislation drafted by his office and signed into law by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

The new law makes two important changes for more than 60,000 potential Massachusetts absentee voters outside the United States:

1. For all elections the law eliminates the current requirement that these voters vote in the presence of an official who then had to notarize their signatures on the absentee ballot envelope.

2. For state elections officials receive those only (such as the November 6, 1984 presidential election), the State law previously required all absentee ballots to be counted if local election by election day.

To Assist Neighbors In Need

At this Sunday's service of Holy Communion, the congregation of the Ballard Vale United Church (United Methodist Church, United Church of Christ) will celebrate the gift of food with their donations of food for the Neighbors in Need ministry of greater Lawrence.

The Ballard Vale United Church has been the cold cereal church this summer, but because of the critical need for all kinds of food items, church members are asked to donate fresh garden vegetables, fruit juice and canned meals as well as cereal.

This Sunday's service is at 9:30 a.m. in Shaw Fellowship Hall with a time for fellowship and light refreshment following the service. The Rev. Gary S. Cornell's preaching theme is "Bread for the World," based on the story of the feeding of the 5,000 in Matthew's Gospel.

It seems to me that people who admit they're wrong get a lot farther than people who prove they're right.

Vegetables

August, when native Massachusetts produce is at its freshest, has been declared Vegetable Month.

Vegetables supply the diet with important amounts of vitamin C, yet many Americans are not meeting the recommended dietary allowance. Dark green and deep yellow vegetables, tomatoes, potatoes and other vegetables can supply well over half the recommended dietary allowance for vitamin C.

Sweet corn is now being harvested. Other native vegetables headed to market include squash, beans, cucumbers and peas while tomatoes and green peppers are beginning to ripen.

Cinderella Auditions Set

The North Reading Theatre Workshop will hold auditions for its late fall production of "Cinderella" Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 6 and 7, at the Martins Pond Union Baptist Church, Main Street, North Reading, at 7 p.m.

"Cinderella," directed and produced by Paul D. Greene, is an adaptation of the original television production which featured a beautiful, lilting Rodgers and Hammerstein score. The show includes a large chorus of townspeople, royalty and "character" performers, as well as nine to ten male and female leads.

Although it is preferred that persons audition with a piece of music from the show, one may sing a song of choice, as long as the pianist is provided with sheet music. For further information, contact the Greenes, 24 Haverhill St., North Reading.

Hospice Care

Hospice care is a compassionate, health care method which allows terminally ill patients to choose to live out their remaining days in an environment of home and family. Now, changes in Medicare regulations will permit beneficiaries to exercise the hospice option under the assurance that they will receive appropriate health care services.

Congress has expanded the Medicare hospital insurance protection to include hospice care as a new benefit through September 30, 1986.

Hospice is primarily a comprehensive home care program which provides all the reasonable and necessary medical and support services for the management of a terminal illness, including pain control.

Covered services include physician services, nursing care, medical appliances and supplies (including outpatient drugs for symptom management and pain relief), home health aide and homemakers services, therapies, medical social services and counseling. Short-term inpatient care is also covered. When a patient receives these services from a Medicare-certified hospice, Medicare hospital insurance pays almost the entire cost.

To be eligible for hospice care, four conditions must be met:

The patient is eligible for Medicare (Part A) hospital insurance.

The patient's doctor and the hospice medical director certify that the patient has a terminal illness.

The patient signs a statement choosing hospice care instead of standard Medicare benefits for the terminal illness.

The patient receives care from a Medicare certified hospice program.

The dog days of mid-summer, periods of hot, sticky, uncomfortable weather, got their name from the ancient Greeks. Summer begins about the same time that the dog star, Sirius, rises with sun.

We confess to small faults only to convey the impression that we have no big ones.

Pool, Deck Permits Popular

With the hot weather here pools, decks and sunrooms seem a popular way to beat the heat in Andover.

A number of new summer additions, including eleven pools, to residents' property comprising over $20,000 in new building fees were paid on over $2 million worth of new homes and additions to existing Andover homes last month. The following listings of new homes, foundations and additions and alterations are provided by the Department of Community Development and Planning.

Kindergarten Youngsters Get A Taste Of School

Andover's youngest public school students got a glimpse of what school days will be like this fall as their "beginning of school" name tags and class assignments reached their homes this week.

Early Childhood Coordinator Linnea Gershenberg told THE TOWNSMAN she is estimating somewhere over 360 kindergarten and readiness class students to enter the newly renovated Shawsheen School on Thursday, Sept. 6, the first day of school.

Each family received a letter from Gershenberg that lists the bus the young student will ride to school. If the youngster has other transportation to school the parent must return a card saying so to Gershenberg. A card was enclosed in the packet mailed home for that purpose. Bus routes will be finalized when school officials get an idea of who the number of children who will be riding busses to school. The routes will be printed in THE TOWNSMAN this month.

Colorful name tags indicating the child's name, address and bus number were also sent to the children. The color of the tag indicates who the child's teacher is and the shape of the name tag tells what bus the youngster will ride. Gershenberg's tag system, complete with whimsical stickers, popular among young children, was praised by Lois Haslam, assistant superintendent of schools for elementary education, who said Gershenberg was helping make the first day of school exciting for the children.

Gershenberg said the inside renovation work was nearing an end at the school, which is located off Ann's Lane. Painting is almost finished and smoke detectors were scheduled to be put up this week.

People may forget how fast you did a job, but they will remember how well you did it.

Hearing Set For August On Charges Against Raytheon

White collar workers at Raytheon have charged that management at the Lowell Street plant has been interfering with the workers' attempts at unionizing and an investigator from the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) has found enough merit with the charge to issue a complaint of the Raytheon practices.

Both Raytheon officials and members of the International Union of Electronic, Electrical, Technical, Salaried and Machine Workers (IUE) must appear at a hearing set for Monday, August 27, at an NLRB office in Boston.

The NLRB complaint charges Raytheon management with illegal interference, threats, coercing, restraining, interrogating, transferring and attempting to create an impression of surveillance against employees of the Missile Systems Division, said Peter DiCicco, president of the New England district council two of the IUE.

For their part Raytheon management believes there is "no merit" to the charges, said Jeff Charney, of the company's public relations office.

"We intend to present our position at the hearing that will be held," said Charney.

The complaint details the alleged unfair labor practices and names four Raytheon managers, they are Robert Mairs, James Haypenny, Peter Maniotos and Bob Winne. Mairs, the manager of labor relations, is stated to have interrogated an employee concerning activities on behalf of the union. In charge of inspection and inspection engineering fabrication, Haypenny is said to have interrogated an employee about attendance at a union meeting, the attendance of others at a union meeting, the signing of union cards, the progress of the union campaign, and other charges in violation of the National Labor Relations Act.

Raytheon employee Marie Landry is also named in the suit as having been transferred from her position as a compensation assistant. She has been refused reinstatement to that post, according to the complaint. She may get her job back if the NLRB agrees with the charges in the complaint, said Joe Kane, the NLRB investigator on the case.

Kane said the charges against Raytheon are serious, adding that they are a fairly common type of charge in companies where unions are establishing.

But IUE organizer Denis O'Donnell likened the Andover company's alleged actions to the government of Poland's actions against labor unions there.

The union's involvement at Raytheon started in late April, explained O'Donnell. He said that white collar "middle managers" such as engineers, technicians and clerical workers were unhappy about a cut in their insurance benefits. A meeting was arranged with IUE officials who expected about six employees to attend. Instead there were about 125 Raytheon people, said O'Donnell. Another

Fall Town Meeting

Resumption of fall town meetings in Andover seems to be in jeopardy, now that the planning board has indicated a reluctance to proceed in that direction.

Selectmen had called for a special session in November, presumably in an effort to relieve the annual town meeting agenda, particularly with regard to non-monetary items.

But, the planners last week said they were charting a course which would prepare them for the annual session next spring, and to get ready for a fall session would be most difficult.

There is a tendency here to agree with the planners.

As board, they now have a full year of experience working together in approaching the problems of community planning. This past year has been a difficult one for the membership in view of a heavy agenda and newness to the position.

Too, the planning department is now without a director. Lacking the services of a full-time professional planner will leave the board and other commissions in a difficult position, in that they will be unable to rely on some services when needed to assist in decision-making processes.

The town manager has indicated there will be no decision on whether to fill the community development director position until later this year, which means the planning department will be without that assistance until early next year at the earliest, if at all, since there is the possibility of abolishing the post. For many years Andover had a bylaw commanding a fall town meeting. Purpose of the session was to devote time and attention to such issues as zoning, planning, conservation and such. Seldom, except during the period when new schools were being considered, did the fall session get involved in major money issues.

Interest in the session waned when, for the most part, there were few items of major import to place before the voters. The result was the bylaw calling for a fall session was removed from the books.

There is rightful complaint that some of the planning board issues at the annual town meeting this past spring did not get the proper attention, or sufficient discussion, due to the session ending in two nights, rather than extending to a third.

But, all that is history, and town administrators must now decide whether or not a fall town meeting should be held.

The planners feel they won't be able to do justice to any items they would be asked to review and make judgment on.

Unless there is some other motivating issue on which to warrant a calling of the fall session, it is recommended that the town follow the planners advice and abandon plans, for this year at least.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — August 1909

Misses Alice and Bertha Coutts are spending several weeks at York Beach.

L.E. Edwards, who bought the old Pearson Brothers' milk route, has bought a new up-to-date milk wagon, and started using it this week.

The Smith and Dove Company's mills will be shut down tomorrow to allow those of the help who wish to enjoy the pleasures of the Tyer Rubber Company's annual picnic at Paragon Park, Nantasket Beach.

Henry Pluff, of Frye Village, has been engaged to take care of the trees and do all the moth fighting at Phillips Academy.

Andover has a natural interest and a very strong one in the improvement of the chief street in Lawrence. From all appearances a beautiful street is to be the result of the nakedness and disruption manifest on all sides along Essex street. Most surely there will still be many things to be wished for in the line of improvements after Essex Street has been completed, but the city will have made a long step forward when it has garnished and cleaned its chief thoroughfare.

50 Years Ago — August 1934

Visions of a strike at the Shawsheen mills flashed through the minds of Andover residents who heard Monday afternoon Box 61 at the mills and ten, the riot call, sounded almost simultaneously at the fire station. Fortunately, however, it was only a practice session at which the signals were slightly mixed. Monday afternoon when Selectmen Dr. J.J. Daly and Howell F. Shepard came to the townhouse to transact the week's business, things looked pretty quiet, and so the Town Fathers decided to stir things up, or rather to see if a riot call would stir the police officers up.

With plans virtually complete, Andover post of the American Legion, its Drum Corps, and the many interested friends who have assisted in the preparation, await the coming of Sunday, which will again bring to Andover the color and thrilling music of a Drum Corps Competition.

The town has been granted $6,000 to continue the ERA work here during August. This is the same amount which was granted during June and July. A total of about 110 men are now on the ERA payroll here. The Lowell Junction roadwork is progressing and the painters have been taken off the Bradlee School job.

25 Years Ago — August 1959

A pair of tell-tale initial cuff links which turned up among thousands of dollars worth of loot at a Dracut home may provide the solution for a bold armed robbery in Andover last May 11. Victim of the robbery was Evan W. Brumagoin of River road, who with his son Randy was forced to remain quiet while two men piled household valuables into duff el bags and made off. The arrest of a Dracut truck driver and the discovery of $50,000 worth of goods in a dugout under his home is expected to have a local angle.

Fire Department rescue boats located at the Central Station and in Ballardvale for emergency purposes on ponds or rivers are somewhat the worse for age, according to Fire Chief Henry L. Hilton. The plywood boats were given to the town back at the time of World War II and the wood has now dried out. In Andover as in many other communities, boats for lifesaving purposes have been provided the town by individuals and organizations.

Andover's budgetary appropriations of $3,725,152.62 for the current year are maintaining a satisfactory level, Town Manager Thomas E. Duff told the selectmen Monday evening. During the first six months of the year expenditures amounted to $1,847,704.61. The town manager also received an expression of appreciation from Chairman Eugene A. Bernadin of the selectmen who complimented him on the efficient manner in which he is getting things done.

10 Years Ago — August 1974

A motion to reopen the court case involving alleged secret meetings of school board members is scheduled for Monday. The motion, filed by Atty. Carmine DiAdamo, on behalf of School Committeeman William L. Lane, follows two controversial rulings issued by Superior Court Judge Paul K. Connolly last week. Judge Connolly in an oral ruling ordered Committeemen John G. Wragg, John F. Lyons, George F. Oleson and Chairman Francis E. Griggs, to "cease and desist," from the unlawful practice of holding secret meetings. The court in its written finding ruled that the committee had not acted illegally.

The Andover Board of Selectmen Monday night agreed not to explore with neighboring towns — or even to set a policy on selling them water — until a complete study of needs is made here at home. The issue first came up publicly two weeks ago, after Tewksbury tried to sound out the possibility of buying water from Andover's Haggetts pond supply. Tewksbury is seeking a 20-year commitment for about a million gallons a day. Since then, Wilmington, North Reading and North Andover have also expressed some interest in doing likewise.

Despite repeated warnings, people are still using the Fish Brook water reclamation area as a swimming beach which is not only prohibited, but a dangerous practice. Signs in the area warning against trespassing, the hazards of stumps and other submerged obstacles, have been torn down by intruders. The Fish Brook project is a water supply and is not suitable for swimming.

Parking Lot Work Ending

Construction crews have begun their last month of work on the parking areas surrounding town offices on Bartlet Street, the town manager said this week.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony said Tuesday the work of redesigning drive-ways and parking lots around the build-meeting in May "kicked off our campaign," said O'Donnell because about 650 employees of the plant, which employs over 5,000, showed up for the IUE session.

Raytheon quality control engineer Phil Kissel, of Plaistow, N.H., told THE TOWNSMAN that the middle managers are looking for the same benefits other Raytheon workers, many of whom are unionized, are receiving. He said that unionized employees who are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) have Blue Cross/Blue Shield insurance plans with no deductible payments while he and other middle managers must pay between $100 and $500 before they receive reimbursement from their health insurer. In addition, Kissel said IBEW workers received raises of eight and nine percent while the non-union workers were getting between three and five percent.

Kissel said there was a poor response to a unionizing effort of workers at his level several years back.

"But times have changed," he explained, saying poor salaries and harassment of workers contributed to this unionizing effort.

An NLRB judge will issue a written decision after the August hearing, said the NLRB's Kane. That opinion will be sent to a five-person NLRB board in Washington who may either adopt or reverse the ruling, he explained.

If the NLRB board agrees with the charges of unlawful interrogation Raytheon would have to post notices saying they will not engage such behavior, said Kane.

"We just try to remedy the unlawful conduct," he said. If the decision is reversed nothing will happen to the IUE. Raytheon has been in Andover since 1970.

ing, which used to be two wings of the old East Junior High School, is now 65 percent complete.

The manager said the contractor is scheduled to finish all work at the site by Sept. 1. The project has been underway all summer.

Works crews from Early and Sons of Bradford have been installing underground electrical lines and a sprinkler system, Mahony indicated, and this week have been putting brick faces on walls. That work was slowed by a problem in finding enough bricklayers, he noted, but six were added to the crew this week, and he expected that to speed up the job.

When the work is finished, the town office building will feature a circular driveway in front of the main entrance on Bartlet Street, and two parking lots on the side of the building overlooking Central Park.

An existing circular driveway on the park side of the building will be removed, and a new parking area will be added on Whittier Street, the school department side of the building. A total of 125 parking spaces are planned.

West Parish Neighbors Planning Block Party

The idea of a neighborhood association was born at a block party in August 1981, sparked by George Fantini. By October the group was full structured with by-laws, officers and acting committees. It was the consensus that it should be an on-going association rather than develop as a single purpose organization.

As originally conceived, the organization was intended to accomplish two things: create, through its combined membership, a voice influential enough to affect the course of development of the West Parish neighborhood and secondly, to provide an opportunity for fellowship and for discovering how interesting and exciting neighbors are. Having accomplished these goals, the group set out to address any and all concerns raised by the membership. One of these was to have a stop sign installed at the corners of Cutler Road at Bateson Drive and Reservation/Oriole Drive. Through the efforts of the association, a stop sign will be installed at this intersection shortly. Another concern is that of a crime watch which is being examined.

The 1983-84 term for association officers is coming to an end. Outgoing officers include: Susan K. Morris, president; Andrew Ala, vice president; Mary Robinson, secretary; Gladys Sakowich, treasurer.

The nominating committee has drafted a slate of officers for the 1984-85 term that will be voted on at the annual block party/meeting on Saturday, Sept. 15 (rain date, Sept. 16) on the corners of Cutler Road at Bateson Drive and Reservation/Oriole Drive. They are Rita Olans, president; Ron Valentine, vice president; Mary Robinson, secretary; Gladys Sakowich, treasurer.

New members are always welcome. Information will be distributed throughout the West Parish neighborhood within the next few weeks.

Students Receive Awards

Paying college tuition bills will be a lot easier for two Andover men who received scholarships totaling $9,000 from the M/A—Com Company, in Burlington.

Jeffrey Wolnik, son of Doris and Raymond Wolnik, was presented with a $4,000 scholarship. He will enter Bentley College in the fall.

The other winner is Dean G. Orfanedes who won a $5,000 award and will enter the University of Lowell in September. Orfanedes is the son of George and Chris Orfanedes. Both men graduated from Andover High School in the spring.

M/A Com, a maker of equipment for telecommunications and defense companies, awards their Founders scholarships annually to the sons and daughters of employees at the company. The scholarships are named in honor of company founders Vessarios Chigas and the late Richard M. Walker.

Kitchen Design

David A. Clement, designer

Kitchen cabinets account for a large percentage of the total wall area and their color and style should be coordinated with the walls. This can be done by dramatically contrasting or closely relating the colors. If there is a contrast between the cabinets and the wall, the ceiling probably should be the same color as the wall. The exceptions would be if a busy paper has been chosen for the walls or if the ceiling is very low and the wall is dark. In this case, a light-colored ceiling may be recommended. However, you are generally safe if the ceilings and walls flow together creating a harmonious effect. Consider the plane of counters as a second floor.

An aesthetically pleasing kitchen is an important factor. However, when choosing cabinets convenience should be of utmost importance. You'll see a variety of cabinets for many purposes when you visit WINDSOR KITCHENS. We feature beautiful custom cabinets in modern, traditional or colonial styles with many finishes. Most people want an uncluttered look in their kitchen and we can give it to you with the use of lazy-susans, pantry cabinets, appliance garages and so much more. Come see for yourself at our beautiful showroom at 1181 Boston, Rd., Ward Hill, Mon-Thurs. 9-5:30; Fri 'til 8; Sat. 'til 2 & by appt Tel 372-3444.

Mosquitoes

In flight, mosquitoes beat their wings about 1,000 times a second, reaching speeds of eight miles per hour, making their familiar humming sound. Mosquitoes are like helicopters in that they don't run to start or stop flying; they lift up immediately after their wings start beating and must flap their wings constantly to stay aloft.

Though their eyes are large in proportion to their bodies, mosquitoes have very poor vision. Until they get within a few inches of an object, they can only make out movement. They rely on their antennae to smell and hear and that's what leads them to you. That's also what makes it easier than you might think to fool a mosquito and keep it from biting. Many people use an insect repellent which works by confusing the mosquito's sensors. That way the mosquito can't tell whether you're worth biting.

The tiny country of Bhutan, north of India, issued a postage stamp that is actually a tiny phonograph record. It plays the Bhutanese national anthem.

Films

A film program featuring old Hollywood cowboy films will be shown on two Sundays in August at the Museum of Our National Heritage in Lexington. "Western Stars of Yesterday," a short with Buck Jones, Tom Mix and others, "Joker on Horseback," a 25-minute black-and-white "B Western" starring Annie Oakley, and "Song of the Saddle" with Dick Foran and Alma Lloyd, will be shown Sunday, Aug. 19, at 2 p.m.

On Sunday, Aug. 26, at 2 p.m. films feature Hopalong Cassidy in "Danger Trail," a silent eight-minute short, Tom Mix in "The Arizona Wooing," a 12-minute black-and-white silent film, Shirley Temple and other "baby" stars in "Pie Covered Wagon," a 10-minute short, and Hoot Gibson in a 59-minute feature film, "Spurs."

Admission to the films and the museum is free. Complimentary tickets to the films may be obtained starting at 1 p.m.

Washington Monument

It was a great moment in American history in 1833 when a group of Washington, D.C. citizens formed the Washington National Monument Society. Its purpose: to build a monument in memory of the Father of Our Country who died in 1799. The group began fundraising efforts for the project and response was instantaneous.

The society held an open contest to design the monument in 1836, and the plan eventually chosen was by Robert Mills, an American architect. His original plan called for a 600-foot shaft, surrounded at the base by a pantheon with statues of Washington and other Revolutionary heroes.

Work on the foundation began in April 1848. Architect Mills died before construction was completed and there were several attempts to alter his original plans due to the instability of the original foundation, although many congressmen simply did not like Mills' plan. The majority sentiment was to adopt a pure obelisk, as recommended by George Marsh, U.S. Ambassador to Italy.

The first cornerstone was laid during a Fourth of July ceremony in 1848, before an unprecedented D.C. crowd of nearly 20,000. The monument was completed in 1884 when Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. reported 1984 second-quarter sales increased 12.5 percent, net income increased 20.5 percent and earnings per common share increased 48 percent from the 1983 quarter.

Sales for the three months ended June 30 were $219,071,000, compared with $194,751,000 in the 1983 second quarter. Operating income was $13,155,000, up 17.5 percent from $11,195,000. net income was $7,917,000, compared with $6,570,000. Earnings per share were $1.26, compared with 85 cents.

C. Robert Powell, chairman, chief executive officer and president, said, "Strong operating performance and a lower tax rate were the major factors reflected in the company's results. Gross margins improved in the United States, but were slightly internationally."

"The second quarter continued the momentum in operating performance and earnings that we have been building over the past six quarters. We are confident that momentum will continue through the end of 1984."

The company said the effective tax rate was 36 percent for the 1984 six months, down from 46 percent in the 1983 six months. The lower rate resulted primarily from a debt/equity swap in 1984 that reduced deferred taxes.

Higher interest expense in the 1984 second quarter resulted from the redemption of $30 million of preferred stock that was replaced with long-term debt. The company's total debt to capitalization ratio is 27.8 percent.

For the six months period, sales were $428,406,000, up 14.8 percent, compared with $373,252,000 in the 1983 first half. Operating income as $23,975,000, up 36.5 percent from $17,569,000. net income was $13,433,400, up to 25 percent from $10,745,000. earnings per share were $1.96, up 45 percent from $1.35.

Reichhold Chemicals, Inc. (NYSE), with headquarters in White Plains, N.Y., produces specialty chemicals and resins in the United States and five other countries.

Standex Promotions Announced

Thomas L. King has been named president, chief operating officer and treasurer of Standex International Corporation (NYSE), succeeding Warren S. Cooper who is retiring but will continue as consultant and vice chairman of the board of the diversified company. King was executive vice president and treasurer. He is a member of the board of directors and its executive committee.

Standex also announced the appointment of Robert E. Masotta, formerly senior vice president, general counsel and secretary, to the position of executive vice president and general counsel. Thomas H. DeWitt, vice president and corporate counsel, was named to the additional position of secretary.

Announcing the appointments, Daniel E. Hogan, chairman and chief executive, paid tribute to the "outstanding contributions of Warren Cooper, who has played a significant role in the building and shaping of Standex International into a major industrial corporation." He added that "we are gratified that he will continue to serve the company." Cooper joined Standex as treasurer/controller in January 1964, was named executive vice president in October 1967 and became president in October 1975. He has been a member of the board of directors since 1964 and was named vice chairman of the board in April 1984. He is a member of the board's executive committee.

Sturbridge

An American political party known as the Whigs made history in 1840 by using the media of the time to campaign for William Henry Harrison, their presidential candidate. The Whigs, parading with banners, broadsides, log cabins on wagons and large red, white and blue balls plastered with slogans, sang, shouted and debated their campaign to the forefront of the American political scene.

For three and one half months now, the Whigs and Democrats of Old Sturbridge Village in Sturbridge have been singing, orating, marching, debating and, moreover, taunting each other as did the Whigs and Democrats of the early 19th century. As the November 3 election draws near, it is time for an examination of the issues at hand in Sturbridge.

19th-century Whigs, like 20th-century Republicans, are strongly associated with business and manufacturing. They favor the availability of credit to promote progress and keep American industry dynamic. The Democrats are suspicious of big business; they would support a tighter hold on credit and collect public taxes in gold and silver or "hard" money.

Hogan cited King's "long and productive association with Standex and his many contributions in the financial and operating areas. Tom King is a worthy successor to Warren Cooper."

King joined Standex in 1963 as president of its South American Coca-Cola operations, then served as president of several other operating divisions of the company. He was named to the board of directors in 1970, appointed treasurer in 1974 and became senior vice president in April 1979. He was elected executive vice president in November 1982. A graduate of Harvard College (A.B.-Economics) and Harvard Business School (M.B.A. in Finance), King is a member of the board of directors of Dresher, Inc.

Masotta joined Standex in 1969, was named corporate counsel and secretary in 1975, vice president in April 1979 and senior vice president in October 1981. He was elected to the board of directors of Standex in January 1984. Masotta is also a member of the board of directors of Bingo King Company, Inc. He received his law degree from Suffolk University Law School (J.D. 1970), attended Boston College (A.B. in Economics-1961) and is a graduate of Boston Latin School. Masotta is a member of the American, Massachusetts and Boston Bar Associations.

DeWitt joined Standex in 1972 as assistant corporate counsel. A graduate of Cornell University (J.S.-1969), he previously served as an associate with a Philadelphia law firm. He is a member of the American and the Pennsylvania Bar Associations.

Standex International is a diversified manufacturer operating in five basic growth areas: institutional products, consumer products, graphics, industrial products and electronics.

Name Change

IDS American Express, the nationwide financial planning firm with offices in Haverhill, has renamed its associated mutual fund operation and four of its funds, according to J. Robert Mershon, CLU, and Mark A. Mershon, CFP, local representatives.

The fund operation, formerly called The Investors Group of Companies, is now The IDS Mutual Fund Group. What was Investor Mutual now becomes IDS Mutual Fund Investors Stock Fund is now IDS Stock Fund. Investors Selective Fund becomes IDS Selective Fund and Investors Variable Payment Fund becomes IDS Variable Payment Fund.

The Mershons said the new names help to clarify the relationship between IDS/American Express and the fund operation. IDS serves as the investment advisor and distributor of shares of the 15 funds of the IDS Mutual Fund Group. Since IDS merged with American Express in early January, the company has changed the names of several of its products to reflect its commitment to financial planning and to provide a consistent, unified image of the company.

The name changes and the fund operation were approved by shareholders at the funds' annual meetings in Minneapolis on July 11.

In addition to mutual funds, IDS/American Express offers life insurance and annuities, IRAs, certificates unit trusts, limited partnerships and management and fiduciary services for pension and employee benefit plans.

The local IDS/American Express office is located at 25 Kenoza Avenue, Haverhill.

Retirement

the Andover Housing Authority owes the town retirement system $43,320, accumulated over a six-year period when the AHA was not billed for its contribution.

According to the report, the town "in a meeting with PERA examiners agreed" that the authority would make annual payments of $7,000 (in addition to its regular yearly contribution) to cover its overdue balance.

According to Downs and Smith, however, the board had discovered its billing error and arranged a repayment schedule with the AHA before the state examiners arrived on the scene. When the state auditors found the error, "it was already taken care of," Smith said.

The problem of outdated lists of inactive employees had also been "taken care of" before the auditors arrived, he said. The report recommends that the board eliminate the names of inactive employees after ten years, and transfer their monies to the pension reserve fund.

Former employees are entitled to leave their money in the system to earn interest, Smith said, so the board does not eliminate inactive employees without first contacting them. Most were contacted during 1983, and the lists are now essentially up-to-date; the state report does not include that fact, he said.

As for the state's remaining two findings, Smith called them "picayune things" that reflect a difference of opinion over accounting details — what type of ledger books and card filing systems should be used. Andover's bookkeeping techniques are "standard in the profession," the accountant said.

Andover's retirement system is "in very good shape," Downs maintained. "We're trying to make it better." Except for the unfunded pension liability — which he said the town has addressed "quite adequately" — the system has "no problems," he concluded.

"I thought we were doing well," he said drily, "until I read this."

The rest of the state report is devoted to listings of the retirement board's assets and liabilities, income and disbursements, and investment earnings. These figures were provided to the state examiners by the town and are accurate, Smith said.

As of Dec. 31, 1982, the board's ledger assets totalled $5.066 million, according to the report, the sum of total funds and liabilities. Total income was $1.8 million; total disbursements, $1.12 million.

The system at that time had a total membership of 681, the report states: 442 active members, 31 inactive, 185 retired, and 23 beneficiaries.

Andover's retirement plan covers all permanent town employees, except school department employees (who earn state pensions).

The town makes annual contributions in an amount determined by the PERA, and active employees contribute five, seven or eight percent of their compensation (depending on their date of employment). Employees may retire at age 55, or after 20 years of service.

quences for over 75 productions at theaters all around the country and Canada. Some of Leong's most recent fights have been in "The Three Musketeers" at the Cleveland Playhouse, and "Julius Caesar" and "Loves and Hours," at Cincinnati Park. He also choreographs stunts for Taft Attractions, a company that runs theme-based amusement parks such as Wonderland, in Toronto, Canada. This fall Leong will be a master teacher of stage combat at the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Clown College, in Sarasota.

Leong is engaged to be married to make-up artist Barbara York who, like her fiancé, teaches classes in her art. York works primarily in films, television and opera, said Leong.

In what little spare time he has Leong is writing a book on his profession and has joined his apprentice Charles Killian in Theatre Innovations, a company Killian owns, they the pair plans to produce video cassettes to teach actors and teachers how to stage fight.

Leong said he is tiring of the political atmosphere of teaching at a college where administrators have so much control over his work. In a few years he hopes to be in Atlanta, Georgia, teaching in his own private studio where he will be his own boss. The college teaching will end soon but Leong will still be choreographing stage fighting around the country.

"If I'm going to get my students out working I have to know what it is like out there," he said. Leong will probably always strive for the perfect fight scene that happens only once in 20 fights, he said to his Salem State students last Friday.

Park-Hegarty Porsche Audi, Inc. — Excellence is Always Expected

The time to buy a 1984 Porsche or Audi is now! And Park-Hegarty Porsche Audi, Inc., 222 Lowell St. in Lawrence is the place to go.

They're giving professionalism and integrity a new place in the automotive industry.

Owner Arthur Park attributes their success to the fact that each department — Sales, Service, Parts, Body Shop and Administration — is as important as all the rest.

The entire staff at Park-Hegarty works together like a family to make all aspects of the dealership successful. And, in fact, some of the staff is family. Both of the owner's sons are on the staff: Doug just joined the sales staff where there's no high pressure sales and Arthur Jr. is in the Administration Dept.

They not only sell terrific cars, they make them better. No one really wants to own a car that 20,000 other people in New England have. That's why you choose a Porsche or Audi. And that's why you go to Park-Hegarty. Their Parts and Accessories Dept. is the largest accessory supplier in New England. You can purchase such items as Bosch fog lights, Blau Plunkt radios, custom mud flaps, real sheepskin seat covers, wooden steering wheels and more to customize your car to your personality and make it unique.

In addition, there's even personal boutique items available such as Porsche gold pens, designer Porsche sunglasses, Porsche sweaters and caps and more. They make great gifts for yourself or for a Porsche lover.

Park-Hegarty follows up their sales efforts with remarkable support services. Right now their service department is expanding to serve you better and quicker. There's no better place to get your car serviced than a dealership where they handle those types of cars every day. At Park-Hegarty you get top quality, dependable, prompt repair service.

Dick Gregoire, manager of the Body Shop, epitomizes Park-Hegarty's concern for its customers and their cars. He fusses over your car until it's perfect. And it doesn't matter if you didn't buy your car there, you still receive the same professional, expert, friendly service.

Trust your car to the recognized professionals and visit Park-Hegarty for auto repairs, body work or your next car. Once you're a customer, you'll stay a customer. Tel. 686-9743.

Courtesy Rules Of Blindness

A blind person is an ordinary person, just blind. You don't have to raise your voice or address him as if he were a child. Don't ask the blind person's spouse or companion what he wants, as directly.

If a blind person is walking with you, don't grab his arm. Let him take yours. He'll probably keep a half-step behind to anticipate curbs and steps.

A blind person usually wants to know who's in the room with him. Speak when you enter, introduce him to the others, include children and let him know if there's a cat or dog. Guide his hand to a chair.

The door to a room, cabinet or to a car left partially open can be a hazard to the blind.

At a meal, a blind person will not usually have trouble with ordinary table skills.

Don't struggle to avoid words like "see." Blind people use them too.

Blind people, by and large, don't want pity. Don't talk about the "wonderful conversation" of blindness, however. A blind person's sense of smell, touch and hearing did not improve with blindness. He relies on them more and therefore, may get more information through those senses than you do.

If a blind person is your houseguest, show him the bathroom, closet, dresser, window and light switch. Many like to know whether the lights are on.

Many blind people are willing to discuss blindness with you if you're curious, but remember, it's an old story to them. They probably have as many other interests as you do.

Don't think of a blind person as just a blind person. He's just a person who happens to be blind.

It is the law for drivers to yield to the right of way when they see a person with an extended white cane. Only the blind may carry white canes.

they sell themselves when people see the puppet work. That's often the appeal." The monkeys have been used as a teaching tool by elementary school speech therapists, she notes, and to put children at ease when they're admitted into the hospital. "Kids can relate to and through a puppet."

Working with commercially-available patterns, Judy makes her animals truly hers by adding her own ideas. "The way you put together the pattern and material makes it original," she says. "You're putting together something that's yours."

She's always alert to new ideas — but sometimes inspiration happens along by accident. When she goofed while sewing the head onto a stuffed dog, for instance, the result was a mutt with his head cocked at an adorable angle. (Now she makes them that way on purpose.)

"I'm always coming up with something a little bit different," Judy says. "I now have so many different things that it's hard to display them all at a show."

While some stuffed-animal creators offer fantasy creatures like unicorns, Judy prefers to make "more realistic" animals. "A lot of it is finding the right fur for the animal," she explains. "That's what appeals to me. I like to find something that looks real" — something, for example, like the plush, snowy "fur" on her polar bear.

Finding the right (man-made) fur is tricky and about to become trickier. Judy's been relying on the Malden Mills factory outlet in Lawrence for most of her fur supply, but the mill is no longer manufacturing fur, and she's not quite sure where she'll turn once she uses up her current stock. The material is also "quite expensive," she adds.

Deciding how to price her products is a challenge, she says. Prices reach from $2 (for a little mouse) to $75 (for a bear larger than your average toddler), with most falling into the $15 to $25 range. Judy tries to keep her prices reasonable (and shoppers often comment that they are) so her animals will keep selling, she says.

Hug A Bear animals are sold only through craft shows, and one of the hardest parts of getting her business off the ground was finding the shows and learning how to become an exhibitor, Judy says.

The best route to that information, she's found, is to subscribe to craft magazines and join craft organizations (both good ways to find new patterns and ideas as well, she adds). And once set up at a show, it's a good idea to "keep an ear open" for talk of other shows among more experienced exhibitors.

Judy prefers craft shows to flea markets, where exhibitors just walk in and pay for a booth, because she's noticed a much greater appreciation for hand-crafted work at craft shows.

"Juried" shows, where craftspeople must submit slides of their work and be chosen as exhibitors, also tend to be more successful than shows that admit exhibitors on a simple first-come, first-served basis. Such shows offer a better quality and variety of products, Judy says.

She's had successful shows at Andover's annual Crafts-in-the-Park, and at National Show Promotions exhibits at the Sheraton-Boxborough. But Judy's favorite show has undoubtedly been the Handsprings Arts and Crafts Sale and Show, held for the first time in April at Phillips Academy — not surprising, since Judy was one of the show's originators.

The idea started when Judy was still showing her work at flea markets, and remarked to a Phillips Academy friend, "Wouldn't it be neat to exhibit on campus?" Eighteen months later, Judy and her friend, craftswoman Jennie Cline, opened Handsprings, with impressive results.

Many more exhibitors applied for the juried show than could be accommodated, and more than 200 academy faculty, spouses, students and children "rallied around" to participate in what became "a really nice community effort." Judy is already looking forward to a bigger and better Handsprings show next spring.

Winter and early spring are usually slow periods for craft exhibitors, she notes. Late spring and summer are fairly busy, but business really starts jumping in November and December. (It's important for exhibitors to choose their shows carefully at that time of year, Judy says, because that's potentially when they'll make the most sales.)

This weekend, Judy's followers can find her at Brockton's Summerfest celebration at Brockton High School, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. (Watch for her in a promotional story at 7:30 tonight on Channel 4's Evening Magazine.)

Besides testing her wings as an exhibitor, Judy had to learn to merchandise her animals as well: "There are a lot of things you don't really think about when you first get into it."

She's found East Coast Crafters of Wilmington a good source of information on the practical end of things — learning, for example, to devote a specific amount of time each week to merchandising, "other than actually making the product." That might mean looking for new ideas, signing up for shows, working on a mailing list, making a sample book of her products, taking slides for juried shows, finding new wholesale sources of materials.

Judy came to her business fresh from her psychology studies at Antioch, an "exhilarating" time when she was very much involved with people every day. Suddenly she found herself "working by myself, down here in the basement, alone."

After the initial adjustment, she learned to enjoy working alone — but she still enjoys people, too, and exhibiting at shows "helps to balance that out for me now." She enjoys, too, choosing materi-

FINANCE CLAUSE LIMITS

One of the key clauses in the agreement to purchase a home is the one concerning obtaining financing by the buyer. Contract forms usually spell out the financing details of the transaction at great length with spaces for the principal, interest rates and other loan terms. Some forms obligate the buyer to pay either a specified level of interest or, if that cannot be obtained, "the best available rate." In a rapidly changing market when rates are rising, such language may force the purchaser to pay far higher interest costs than originally expected.

You might, as the buyer, limit interest costs by agreeing to a maximum rate and stipulating that if the agreed-upon rate is not available, the agreement is void and the deposit must be returned.

A buyer must make a "good faith" effort to find the financing described in the sales agreement. But what happens if interest rates change and you no longer qualify for a loan? You can protect yourself by making the entire transaction contingent on your ability to get the financing outlined in the contract.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 5 PUNCHARD AVE., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Hart, Poore Address GOP

Two Andover Republicans testified at a State House hearing in Boston this week at the invitation of Republicans representing them at their party's convention in Dallas later this month.

The topic on Monday was women's issues as Louise Hart, 11 Heather Drive, urged her party to re-establish support for the Equal Rights Amendment, while Susan Poore, 85 Osgood St., told the Republicans the opposite, warning them not to "compartmentalize issues and people by gender." Poore does not feel a renewed ERA effort is needed to guarantee equal rights, instead, she told THE TOWNSMAN that an addition to the existing 14th amendment in the Bill of Rights would suffice.

Poore, who is running on the Republican ticket for the 17th Essex district seat in the Massachusetts House of Representatives, said the word "sex" should be added to the amendment which prohibits discrimination because of religion or race. She added that the Republican party shouldn't deal in rhetoric, rather she listed the issues she thought critical which include support of a balanced budget and continued reduction of the budget, economic equality, education, training for displaced workers, child care, crime control and health and safety in the workplace.

Hart focused on the economic deprivation of women, who she said they were the hardest hit by the recession, inflation and government cutbacks, in her testimony.

"Women suffer from discrimination at all levels," she said. "The ERA will send a signal throughout our country that we wish all of our citizens to participate in the American dream."

The platform hearing was chaired by ranking Massachusetts House Republican William Robinson, (R-Melrose), who held the open session to hear from elected officials and candidates for office around the state, said Poore.

Robinson will attend the Dallas convention and told those gathered in Boston that he wanted to know "what kinds of things to bring with me from Massachusetts to the convention," explained Poore.

Poore said she thought the nomination of Geraldine Ferraro, the first woman to run nationally for office on a major party ticket, was "fabulous," but added that it was the "only thing that has saved the Democratic ticket from total boredom."

She said thought, that the excitement of a woman as vice-president will wear off soon and the real question to consider was "what do you get when you elect a Democratic leader versus a Republican leader."

Hart wasn't available to comment on Ferraro
